

The Prof. Dr. Marijan Hanžeković Trust

invites entries for the annual award of the Prof. Dr. Marijan Hanžeković Prize

Rules for the 2023 competition

The Prof. Dr. Marijan Hanžeković Trust announces its competition for the award of the annual prize for 2023. Articles, in Croatian or in English, must be submitted by June 1, 2023 at the latest. The articles are submitted electronically, and all applicants must meet the defined conditions.

Prizes

The prizes shall be awarded in two categories:

- the regular prize, which consists of a diploma, a medal and the gross amount of 6.500 € (48,974.25 HRK), and
- the student prize, which consists of a diploma and the gross amount of 2.000 € (15,069.00 HRK).

Criteria

The Trust is inviting authors to submit theoretical, empirical and policy-oriented articles in the field of public sector economics. Articles can analyse the role and functioning of the public sector at macroeconomic, sectoral and microeconomic levels, in both advanced and emerging market economies. Articles providing new perspectives, new assessments, judgements and knowledge are particularly welcome.

The qualities expected to be found in submissions are analytical rigour and creativity, as well as originality and technical proficiency.

Only original and unpublished works can be considered.

In the award adjudication process, the age of the entrants will be taken into consideration, with younger contestants receiving extra points.

The articles must be submitted electronically, under a passcode.

Results

The Trust will inform the prize-winners and the public of the results of the competition by September 30, 2023.
