

WEBINAR

Service-Learning approaches in event management classes

We are pleased to invite you to our upcoming webinar organized by the SEA-EU Society Hub, focusing on the integration of service-learning in event management education.

This session will explore innovative teaching practices that connect academic learning with real community needs, empowering students to design and deliver events that create meaningful social impact. The webinar will feature two practical examples from the University of Split.

We warmly welcome all teachers, researchers, students, and professionals interested in service-learning event practices and experiential learning.
